

I think the digital television copyright protection proposal is a dangerous idea. It prevents many legitimate uses, and hinders innovation in the television market. It also sends out a negative signal that the American people are all unjust copyright infringers, which is most certainly not true. As the members of the Federal Communications Commission, I urge you not to pass this proposal.